NOT-ISO PU ISOCYANATE-FREE POLYURETHANE COATING SYSTEM

Sayerlack, driven by its characteristic sense of innovation, has decided to introduce the isocyanate-free polyurethane technology.

The NOT-ISO PU concept has produced a new coating system with a much reduced hazard classification that matches traditional polyurethane product performance in the decoration of wood furniture, by replacing isocyanates and their derivatives with alternative reagents.

NOT-ISO PU coating system is composed by a clear basecoat and a clear topcoat, to be applied by spray. Basecoat TB0200/00 is characterized by excellent coverage and flow, high vertical hold-up and exceptional resistance to temperature variations.

Topcoat TN01**/00 is characterized by excellent leveling, uniformity of opacity, and good softness to the touch. Hardener TJ0300/00 can be used for both basecoat and topcoat, reducing the number of products to be kept on stock, making this a good choice coating system for use in "lean manufacturing" processes.

Testing of the NOT-ISO PU coating system has shown exceptional chemical resistance, in some cases better than that of a traditional polyurethane coating system, such as pressure whitening, light fastness and alcohol resistance. The aesthetic appearance of NOT-ISO PU coatings is equal to that of a typical high-quality polyurethane coating system. NOT-ISO PU is available in different gloss levels.

Sayerlack is always focused on human health and the preservation of the environment. We keep on working in this direction with more and more commitment, because whoever applies our products is very important to us.
